

Athletes and Ticket Packages Announced for 2017 Red Bull Rampage

Full Roster of World Class Athletes Selected; Tickets Available August 23rd

Virgin, Utah (August 11, 2017) – Red Bull Rampage, the most coveted and challenging event in Freeride Mountain Biking, promises to make the 2017 edition the best spectator and athlete experience in its 12 year history. Expanded ticketing levels offer three different spectator experiences, attendees will be able to choose from the traditional General Admission, General Admission Plus and the Rampage Experience. Ticketing will be released on Wednesday, August 23; to get exact timing and first access, follow the Red Bull Rampage Facebook Event Page. In addition, 21 of the World's best riders have officially been selected to compete and preparation is underway for another challenging and competitive event.

Returning athletes for 2017 include some familiar faces, and some you're sure to see much more of in the future. Cam Zink returns for 2017, hoping to repeat his 2010 show stopping ride that put him at the top of the podium. Darren Berrecloth, Brett Rheeder, Graham Agassiz, James Doerfling and Logan Binggeli are all returning Red Bull Rampage veterans hoping to take advantage of the new terrain and put their stamp on the history of the World's most challenging mountain bike event. Then, of course, there's the three way battle for the first hat trick between Brandon Semenuk, Kurt Sorge and Kyle Strait.

Then there're the local rookies. Ethan Nell and Reed Boggs both live within a crank's rotation of the Red Bull Rampage terrain in Virgin, Utah. Could their years of experience in the Utah silt pay off for the rookies? Or will the wily veterans of years past prevail? Only time will tell.
